FREIGHT RATE HEARING

Will Come in February at a Special Date in Superior Court at Exeter

Exeter, Jan. 20.—The matter of most interest which came before the superior court Wednesday was the hearing in the case of the state of New Hampshire against the Boston and Maine railroad for alleged increase of freight rates over its lines from the dates of July 24, 1883, to Aug. 1, 1889. The case has been before the public since July 2, 1908, when Attorney General Eastman filed a bill in equity, and the railroad later sent a demurrer. The case was transferred to the supreme court, but it has now come back overruled, and is to be heard in the superior court of this county.

The attorney general asked the court for a temporary injunction. He emphatically stated that the roads had been specified in the bill of equity, and it was unreasonable to ask for this at this time. He said: "The rates were to be decreased, but they were increased. We say that they have raised the rates, and their excuse is that it was necessary to do so in order to properly conduct the railroad. But we do not understand it so. I move, your honor, that the state is now entitled to a temporary injunction on the bill and answer."

Attorney John M. Mitchell of Concord for the railroad said: "There has been a practical admission that the road has raised the rates. That has never been the question, but it is contended that it cannot be brought by the attorney general. In the state of New Hampshire there is a total mileage of 1190 miles of railroad, and of this 1038 is operated by the Boston and Maine. The Worcester, Nashua and Rochester was acquired under an act of 1883, the Manchester and Lawrence under the same act; the Eastern railroad in Massachusetts, and leased roads in New Hampshire in 1884, and afterwards there were several other roads including the Boston and Lowell, the Concord and Claremont, and others. There was no provision for the purchasing of stock by the act of 1883. The purchasing of stock is entirely outside of leasing and uniting."

For the way of illustrating he took the Concord and Montreal road, which road is made up of the purchases of stock. "It includes the Whitefield and Jefferson, Lake Shore, the Manchester and Milford, and other branches. The Whitefield and Jefferson was purchased under the statute of purchasing of stock, the Manchester and Milford under special charter, and the Northern was leased Dec. 1, 1889. We desire that the attorney general specify which railroad is increasing its freight rates. We allege that the reduction made after July 24, 1889, more than counterbalanced the raise before it. What we desire is, and what we are entitled to is a specification of the roads which have raised their rates between 1883 and 1889. They must show that the rates charged exceed those from the years of 1883 to 1889. We ought to know in advance the roads which the state claims are raising the rates. The Eastern was acquired through the act of purchasing of stock, and other lines leased by special acts. It seems that an intelligent solution is the specification of the roads, and after that has been made we will reply. There will be no delay, all we ask is a limited time to file an answer. The state is assuming the excess, and it seems to me, your honor, that the state ought to fix the roads."

The attorney general in reply said: "I have filed my allegations, and it seems an unreasonable proposition to specify the roads at this time. I have specified them. They say there has been an increase of rates, and now it seems unfair to ask us to find out the roads. To what extend they have been raised through the purchase of stock statute I do not say. What I ask is that we ought to have a temporary injunction without further hearing."

Mr. Mitchell again stated: "That on the application for a temporary injunction is not definitely settled, but if the court thinks so we are ready." The attorney general stated that the records be left with Clerk of Court Charles H. Knight.

To this Mr. Mitchell made reply: "We are ready—we ought to have the usual time of sixty days." At a conference between Judge Plummer and the attorneys it was decided that the attorney general's demand for a temporary injunction stand and that the road should file an answer within thirty days, when another hearing will be held here.

D. H. MCINTOSH

One of Our Most Prominent and Prosperous Business Men

D. H. McIntosh, one of our most prominent and prosperous business men, came here from Halifax, N. S., in 1891, and for several years resided in Boston.

In 1895 he came to this city and for a number of years was connected with the Portsmouth Furniture company.

D. H. MCINTOSH.

In 1898 he opened a store at 89 Congress street. He was later burned out, meeting with a heavy loss, but, undaunted by this, he again started in, on the corner of Fleet and Congress street, where his large store is now located.

In conversation with Mr. McIntosh when asked about his success, and how he managed to establish such a large and prosperous business in a few years, his answer was, "By advertising," and he said, "I have always been a great believer in advertising, especially in local papers and in that and giving the people just what they advertise and square dealings, I owe my success."

He also said: "One might spend lots of money in advertising, but unless you give the people what you advertise, there is no use in advertising. This goes to show what can be done in Portsmouth by any hustling young man with a few dollars and a little common sense." Mr. McIntosh further says, that he would not swap Portsmouth for any other city of New England or any other place, he believes it is the coming city of New England, and soon must have a great boom.

He has made wonderful improvements in the past years in his store, and it is today one of the leading furniture stores of this section of New England, and has hosts of friends, and a class of trade that will stick by him.

ARTHUR W. FOSTER'S MARRIAGE

The Strange Case of a Boston Young Man Who Is Well Known in This City

Boston, Jan. 21.—Florence D. Foster who was Miss Howland, daughter of the wealthy retired business man, J. Frank Howland of 320 Commonwealth avenue, brought a petition seeking the nullification of her marriage to Arthur W. Foster of 12 Wellington street, this city and New York, in the superior court yesterday. They were married Jan. 2.

Mrs. Foster sets forth that she left her husband immediately after the marriage and has not lived with him. She says that at the time of the marriage she was "so much intoxicated and overcome from the use of intoxicating liquors and from the effects of an opiate or other drug as to deprive her of all sense of volition and to render her incapable of knowing what she was then doing." She further alleges that she "did not voluntarily, willingly or knowingly enter into said contract of marriage and that it was not her free act and deed."

Justice of the Peace Feyhl, who performed the ceremony at his office at No. 449 Shawmut avenue, declared that the bride was not intoxicated when the couple were before him. "I married the couple," he said, "and I must say I am astonished to hear the declaration of the bride. I have been performing such ceremonies for fifteen years and never has a similar case been brought to my attention. I would not marry any persons who were intoxicated or were not, in my opinion, in their right mind."

The return of the marriage shows that the witnesses were Hammond Branson, a well known clubman, and Miss Francis Bailey, the telephone operator at the United States Hotel, who lodges at No. 12 Wellington street.

Arthur W. Foster was seen at his lodgings, 12 Wellington street, last evening. He stands 5 feet, 11 inches, weighs 190 and carries no loose flesh. He is a remarkably fine looking young man of good address. It developed in the course of the conversation that he figured as an expert swimmer at Narragansett Pier summers where his youthful years were much admired by the young colony or athletic set.

When asked to tell something about his acquaintance with Howland, Foster promptly exclaimed, "You mean my wife?" After resuming, he said, "It was no chance acquaintance that sprung up between us, but was the result of a fairly good knowledge we had of each other for a period covering 10 years, for you must know that I was received at her Commonwealth avenue home as well as at the summer home in South Paris, Me."

"I had every reason to believe that her father didn't look with disapproval on my attentions to his daughter, for in point of connections my family is quite the equal of hers."

He then told of the ceremony and said: "We had a wedding dinner and were very happy. The following day I told her to get ready and that we would go to her father's home and make a clean breast of the whole matter, but she prevailed on me not to carry out my plans, saying: 'You leave that to me, for I know papa better than you do and I will fit it up all right.'"

"The next thing I heard from her was to receive a letter from Lawyer Gilman of 6 Beacon street asking me to call in regard to a matter affecting Miss Howland." When I reached the office I found my wife there and she so completely changed in her attitude toward me that I instantly decided that undue influence had been exerted on her to turn her against me.

"All I want is to be allowed to have my wife, who is old enough and knew me long enough to know who she was taking for a husband." At first I felt all alone in the case, but I have received word from my father, who is an engineer for the Massachusetts Construction company at Portsmouth, N. H., stating that he will back me up."

Mr. Foster's landlady spoke in high terms of Mr. Foster and said Miss Bailey was a girl of exemplary character and would vouch for what Mr. Foster had said.

Mr. Howland referred the reporter to his daughter's lawyer, Mr. Jefferson, of the law firm of Daggett and Jefferson, with offices in the Pemberton building.

Mr. Jefferson said, when reached on the telephone at his home in Norwood, "My client is a very fine young lady who got in with a set altogether too fast for her and she was imposed on."

Young Foster has been here considerable and has many acquaintances in this city who are amazed at the revelations from this action brought in the Massachusetts courts.

An Airship to Carry Three Hundred

Cologne, Jan. 20.—Count Zeppelin is planning a monster airship capable of carrying 300 persons and which is proposed to use in a passenger service to be established between Hamburg and London. A service will also be maintained from Hamburg to Cologne and Baden-Baden.

The craft will be 100 feet in length and about 55 feet in diameter. It will be driven by eight motors. News of the enterprise developed through visits which Zeppelin's chief engineer

Colismann, made to Hamburg and to this city, where, on Monday, he discussed with the mayor of Cologne arrangements for the construction of landing and departure yards.

It is planned to employ four motors in ordinary weather, reserving the others for use in case of accident or a storm necessitates the development of greater power.

The necessity of war has not been driven by eight motors. News of the enterprise developed through visits which Zeppelin's chief engineer

THEATRICAL TOPICS

Oberammergau

This Thursday evening at the Portsmouth Music Hall under the auspices of the Portsmouth Fraternal Order of Eagles, the citizens of Portsmouth will have the pleasure of seeing the genuine views of "Oberammergau, Its People and Their Plays."

Other views that Mr. Ellsworth presents were made from original photographs which he had taken while he was a resident of the picturesque little village of Oberammergau, and are the only ones in this country that have the endorsement of the village and participants in the play in 1906 and 1905. Mr. Ellsworth comes to this city with the very highest European and American endorsements.

His views have been pronounced by critics as the very best that have ever been cast from a stereopticon.

Mr. Ellsworth is a magnetic speaker, and does not burden his hearers with a lot of unnecessary words, but every sentence uttered is to the point and he holds the attention of his audience from the beginning until the end of his remarkable entertainment. So interesting and realistic are his views, his description of them, and everything pertaining to the entertainment, that the evening fades away almost without the perception of his auditors. One feature that is worthy of note is the introduction of a select orchestra, which will render some of the original music written for the wonderful drama. Among these musical numbers are "Hosanna," "The Song of Solomon," and the "Journey to Calvary." The second selection is two hundred years old.

During the famous church scene, the choir singers, and cathedral chimes will be introduced. Moving pictures were never taken of any scene of the plays.

Mr. Ellsworth will introduce 300 colored views during his entertainment.

Boston Airship Show

The entries for the first exhibition of air craft are coming in very fast and that the complete list of exhibits will include practically every known type of air craft now seen. Manager Chester J. Campbell is more than pleased with the interest being taken by the inventors, and expects to present a most interesting and instructive exhibition of full sized aeroplanes, monoplanes, biplanes, balloons and dirigibles as well as hundreds of large reproductions of every known model. Besides this, an interesting collection of photographs, the most complete in the world, being practically everything taken on both sides of the water, will be shown by the Aeronautical Navigation School of New York. There will be many full sized man-carrying crafts, notably the Baldwin 195 foot dirigible, the same one that competed in the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, a Wright model, a Santos Dumont, a Zeppelin, several Bleriot's, a Latham-Airplane, a Curtiss and many more models yet unknown but interesting in possible flights. The exhibition will be held in Mechanics Building, Boston, opening Feb. 16th, and running until Feb. 28th.

Hadley, Salem; Frank H. Green, Seabrook; William H. Laug, Stratham; Frederick J. Hughes, Windham.

The first case to be tried this term, was begun on Wednesday, the case of John M. Maloon of Deerfield against George H. Towle of that town, which is an action wherein the plaintiffs seek to recover for services during the illness of their mother, Frances I. Maloon. It is a decree from the probate court. The attorneys engaged on the case are Mitchell and E. L. Guphill of Portsmouth for the plaintiffs, and J. T. Bartlett of Raymond for the defendant. Alfred A. Collins of Danville was chosen as foreman of the jury. The case will probably consume several days.

The prize which are to be given away at the Foresters' fair next week are now on exhibition at the store window of Smith's shoe store. They are many, and include articles from nearly all of the business firms of the town. The most attractive is the cash display, which is made up of $88, of which $60 is in gold.

John H. Elkins has received a puffin, or sea parrot, which was shot recently at the Isles of Shoals. It is to be mounted by him and sold. The bird is extremely rare, and it is thought to have been driven toward the shore by the cold storms which have prevailed on the coast this winter. It presents a handsome appearance and its plumage is most attractive.

Miss Mary Macmillan, nurse at the Cottage hospital, died there on Wednesday from the effects of pneumonia, which she contracted a few days ago. She was in the second year as a student at the hospital training school. She was from Montreal, Canada, and 25 years of age. The body was taken to that city today for burial, and was accompanied by Miss Chisholm, the matron. Prayers were said at the hospital in the afternoon by Rev. Victor M. Houghton, rector of Christ Episcopal church, of which she was an attendant.

The annual inspection of Frank E. Rotins company, U. R. K. P., was held Wednesday evening at the Pythian hall by Maj. Arthur W. Morey of Keene. The work was preceded by a banquet at the Squamscott. The evening hours were spent there in a merry manner.

The first of the Merrill free lecture was held at the town hall on Wednesday evening by Alfred Bates Hall of the Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, Conn. His subject was "The Passion Play at Oberammergau." The discourse was most interesting and the attendance large.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church held its monthly meeting at the church vestry on Wednesday afternoon. An interesting letter was read by Miss Clara Woodman, a missionary to China.

AT DARTMOUTH

The football coaches next year will have as an advisory committee seven men who have great reputations for their coaching ability. Each of these seven men have been star players of some Dartmouth football team and most of them have had wide experience as coaches. O'Connor and Lillard were head coaches at Dartmouth, Caranough coached Worcester academy last fall, Whelan has been identified with the coaching at Volkmann and Tufts, Wentworth has had experience coaching out west, Jennings and Belle are on the committee on account of their star playing while in college as they have not been actively engaged in coaching.

As a result of the urgent call made for more candidates for the track team by Mr. Hillman says that the material is very promising and that there is every indication that Dartmouth will have a champion track team during the coming season. The trials for the relay team which will enter the B. A. C. meet to be held the week after the semester examinations, will be run off next week. Coach

Hillman may enter men in other events if he can get them in proper shape in time.

Dartmouth has been very successful so far this season in basketball, as it has defeated both the M. I. T. and the Cornell team, both by large scores. The next two games, however, are expected to be the hardest ones on the team's schedule, and the ones which will show the team's real merit. Saturday night Dartmouth plays Williams and a week later Wesleyan. If Dartmouth wins these two games it has strong hopes of going through the season without defeat. This year's Williams' team has four of last year's team, which was one of the best in the country. This team defeated Dartmouth twice last year. Wesleyan has a team of about the same calibre as Williams and its 40 to 17 score over Cornell has caused the Dartmouth enthusiasts to be doubtful as to the outcome of the game. In both of these games Dartmouth will have the advantage which the cramped floor in the gym gives it, and with the year, it stands a good chance of winning both games.

The schedule of the freshman basketball team has been announced as follows: Jan. 29, Cushing academy at Hanover; Feb. 11, Lowell Textile at Lowell; Feb. 12, Phillips Andover at Andover; Feb. 15, Dean academy at Hanover; Feb. 21, Phillips Andover at Hanover; Feb. 26, Williams seminary at Hanover. The schedule is an unusually strong and long one this year but the freshman team this year is stronger, it is thought, than those of other years, which warrants this unusual schedule.

P. & E. RECEIVER

Trolley Line to Exeter Under Such Management

Concord, Jan. 22.—A temporary receiver for the Portsmouth and Exeter Street Railway Company was appointed by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States District Court on Wednesday evening, David A. Belden of Haverhill, Mass., being named for the position.

The receivership was ordered upon petition of The New York Trust Company of New York, holder of a trust mortgage on which foreclosure proceedings were begun on Jan. 7. In regard to the presentation of the petition for receivership, the court order contains the words: "And the defendant appearing and not objecting."

The temporary receivership is to continue till two o'clock on the afternoon of Jan. 25, when a hearing will be held at the United States court room in Concord on the matter of permanent receivership, bonds for receiver, or other possible contingencies.

This company asked the legislature in 1909 for the right to abandon its line but failed to secure favorable action. There have been many and frequent rumors of its sale to parties other than the present owners but no such deal has been brought to a close.

MRS. STREETER RE-ELECTED

Concord, Jan. 20.—At the annual meeting of the state board of charities and corrections in this city yesterday Mrs. Lillian C. Streeter of this city was elected chairman. The members present included Mrs. Streeter, Oliver P. Gilman of Alton, Mrs. Frank P. Brown of Whitefield and William J. Ashen of Concord.

THE BOUDOIR OF

A FAT WOMAN

What do we see? Terrifically long and austere looking corsets; tiny (as possible) shoes, uppers bulging over the vamps; various restrainers, retainers, distainers (names unknown); perspiration disinfectants; blackhead eradicators; pimple specifics; blood medicine. Strewed around a few candy boxes; maybe an exercise on the wall. These "properties" signify that at various times this pleasant room is the scene of fashionable tortures, of heart-burnings, of fillings from grace. Here the poor lady gasps into her retainers, her harness. Here she hides her fat-caused pimples, perspiration, blackheads; here, when her spirit is weak, she forsakes the exercise for the deadly candy box. What a life—a four-flush.

Avoidable? A Marmola Prescription Tablet, taken after each meal and at bedtime, will reduce that fat (a pound a day) down to the firm flesh beneath; banish the fat-caused blemishes; give a license to eat all the candy, etc., craved, and sleep as long as one desires. Investigate; tender seventy-five cents to your druggist for a large case, or write the Marmola Co., 973 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Do not be misled—Marmola Tablets are safe—being made strictly in accordance with the famous, fashionable formula: 1-2 oz. Marmola, 1-2 oz. M. Ex. Casarea Aromatic, 1-2 oz. Peppermint Water; consequently, go ahead—without fear. A month will emancipate you.

NEWMARKET

Mrs. Elise Groleau of Manchester is seeking to recover possession of her seven year old boy, who for some time has been in the custody of Isadore Dube, now living in Newmarket, and who is engaged in this town as a barber. She had Dube arrested on a charge of kidnapping her child, but after a hearing on the complaint Dube was discharged. In the fall of 1909 Mrs. Groleau, who was then a widow, and her name Mrs. Theriault, was living in Lewiston, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Dube were also residents of that city. According to the testimony which she gave at the hearing before Justice Irving T. George at Newmarket, Mr. and Mrs. Dube asked her to leave the boy at their home for two or three months and said they would care for him. She took the boy to their home on Nov. 15, 1909, and the following April the Dube disappeared. Mrs. Groleau claimed that she was unable to get any trace of them or her boy until recently. She consulted Lawyer Jesse B. Pattee of this city, and a warrant charging Dube with kidnapping, was sworn out before Justice of the Peace Ernest Anell. Mrs. Anell accompanied Mrs. Groleau to Newmarket and they finally located Dube and caused his arrest. Mr. Dube set up in defense that Mrs. Groleau had left the child with him against his will, and upon this phase of the testimony Justice George discharged him.

Charles Staples has resigned his position with the Newmarket Electric Light company to accept a more lucrative one with one of the leading garages in Boston.

Isadore Dube met with a bad accident Tuesday evening, while on his way home he slipped and fell, dislocating his left shoulder.

G. E. Whitler of Manchester was in town on Wednesday.

SENSATIONAL SLUMP IN STOCK

Great Collapse in Hocking
Coal to Be Investigated

DISRUPTION OF THE POOL

Prices in General List Rapidly Crash
Downward, Stocks Regaining Small
Part of Their Loss Before Exchange
Closes—Two Brokerage Houses Go
Under, Their Liabilities Being Well
Up into the Millions

New York, Jan. 20.—The governors of the stock exchange have decided to investigate the causes of yesterday's sensational slump in the stock of the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron Company, which sent two brokerage houses crashing to the wall
in failures totalling $4,000,000.

A third house is reported to be seriously involved.

The New York banks refused to accept the stock as security for loans
and the pool was carried on call money.

This paved the way for the disaster. The direct cause was the sudden selling of about 10,000 shares
by unknown interests, and the stock
that was selling at 91 1/2 last week collapsed to 23.

The stock was held largely in a pool which put the stock up from $20 a share to $91.50. The pool bought at an average of about $77 a share, beginning a little more than a year ago.

The failures were those of J. M.
Fiske & Co., and Lathrop, Haskins & Co. The disruption of the pool to the stock market apparently forced the trouble, another episode in the great turning of the general speculative market since the year began.

The firm of Lathrop, Haskins &
Co. was organized about a year ago,
with Henry S. Haskins as the board member, Henry S. Leverich as general partner and Pauline G. Lathrop, widow of the former senior partner of the old firm, as special partner. At the office of the firm it was announced that the failure was due to customers who had refused to make good their impaired margins.

Lathrop, Haskins & Co. for a long time had been intimately associated with the interests of the Columbus & Hocking Coal and Iron company and the sharp decline in quotations on this stock are said to have had an effect on the standing of the house.
Haskins of the firm is president of the coal and iron company.

The failure of J. M. Fiske & Co.
also was announced on the stock exchange. The firm was organized in April, 1909, and had offices at 42
Broadway. The members of the firm are J. M. Fiske, A. C. Sherwood, D. T.
Humphrey and C. M. Washburn.

After the collapse in Columbus and Hocking, there was a crash of stocks just before the end of the closing hour. Already there had been one decline, in the forenoon, just after the announcement of the Lathrop, Haskins suspension. In the afternoon the prices crashed downward
so rapidly that changes of half a point were common between sales.

Offerings of stock seemed to flood
a market absolutely bare of buying orders. From 54 1/2, its morning high price, Steel common was swept downward to 51 1/2, Union Pacific was liquidated. In such amounts that its price went below 189 from 193 1/2
earlier in the day.

Southern Pacific fell to 126 1/2 from 132; Reading to 158 1/2 from 162 1/2,
and other shares of the active list suffered losses extending all the way from one to five points. Demoralization lasted between 2:30 o'clock and 2:45 o'clock. Then the market steadied itself and the stocks regained a small part of their loss before the gong rang.

Boy Turns Bandit and Fires Revolver
Shots at a Woman

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 20.—Richard Cronin, 15, fired two shots last night at Mrs. James Prentice in a robbery attempt. She was unhurt.
Cronin was arrested.

Inspired, the police say, by moving pictures, Cronin decided to turn band-
it. He broke into a hardware store, they charge, secured a revolver and then sought a victim. When Mrs.
Prentice came along and refused to throw up her hands Cronin opened fire.

Hearing the shot, a patrolman rushed to the scene and disarmed the boy after a tussle.

HARMON LIKES VIEW FROM WHITE HOUSE

May Talk With Wife About
Leasing It For Four Years

Washington, Jan. 20.—Governor Harmon of Ohio was an object of much interest at the gathering of the governors of the states in the east room of the White House. While waiting for the appearance of the president, Harmon wandered from window to window to the famous old room gazing out into the grounds.

"How do you like the view, governor?" he was asked.

"Very much, indeed," he replied.
"I understand this house is for rent
every four years."

"Are you thinking of applying for a lease?"

"Well," laughed the governor,
"when you go house hunting you usually have to consult your wife, so I won't say anything until I see her.
But she's in town, you know, and we may talk it over."

castle county court, who pronounced Godwin guilty. The accused was tried by the judges, the constitution prohibiting trials by jury in election cases.

Godwin is at liberty on $3000 bail.
His bondsman have thirty days in iff.

The family lived on a houseboat

The girls were named "Ohio" and
"Virginia," as a memory of the trying

MEAT BOYCOTT IS EFFECTIVE

Cleveland Butchers Are Beginning to Cut Prices

THOUSANDS OF "STRIKERS"

Shopworkers Agree to Abstain For Thirty Days From Purchase of Meat

Thirty-Cent Egg Club Springs Up
as Side Issue—Sales of Vegetables, Cereals and Canned Goods Bring Harvest to Grocers

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—One butcher shop closed, pork chops reduced 2 cents a pound, 7000 recruits to the army of "meat strikers," 13,000 in number Tuesday night, were Wednesday's developments in the campaign of Cleveland shop workers to force down meat prices by abstaining for thirty days from the purchase of meat.

As a side issue, Frank Krauze, a lawyer, started a "30-cent egg club,"
to which he says hundreds have given their approval.

He declares 30 cents a reasonable price for eggs, and insists that eggs, when they become so plentiful as to lower the price, are speedily shipped into cold storage, reducing the supply and boosting the price. He wants his club members to quit eggs until the supply gets so big that the price cannot get above 30 cents.

Leaders of the "meat strike" greeted the announcement in the twenty-seven shops of the Cleveland Provision company that pork chops would sell at 17 cents a pound, instead of 19, as the first fruits of the strike.
Other shops were compelled to follow suit.

Butchers declare, however, that the strike is aimed at the wrong people when it is turned on the retailers, and insist they will give the city council all the aid in their power in the authorized inquiry into the real cause of high meat prices.

The retailers say the only result of the strike will be the ruin of small dealers.

Henry Feuer has closed his doors.
The shop sales, he said, usually ran from close to $40 to as high as $75
a day, but had dropped in the last few days so that he could not stand the loss. His shop is in the factory district.

Grocers in the district in which factory workers live are reaping the harvest. Vegetables, cereals and canned goods are replacing meats on the tables of the pledge signers' families. A rise in price of many of these articles of diet is expected.

Albert M. Armour, a director of the Cleveland Provision company, admitted that the strike would hurt the butchers, but he took issue with the total abstinence. "Let the people cut their use of meat 25 percent and they will have brought the demand down on a level with the supply and regulate prices automatically," he said.

There is too much demand for the best cuts and too little demand for the other portions of a carcass. As a result there is a big waste on the meats that might be cooked as palatably as the best cuts. That waste has to be made off the parts of the carcasses which are sold.

In Canton last night the Central Labor union voted to inaugurate a meat strike, while Mingo Junction, a small town, went on a decided strike because the butchers boosted prices.

VERDICT IS REITERATED

Not the Slightest Proof of Reaching Pole Was Submitted by Cook

Copenhagen, Jan. 20.—The committee of the university of Copenhagen has completed its examination of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's original notes and confirmed its previous conclusions that not the slightest proof that the explorer reached the North Pole had been submitted.

The committee finds that the copy of Cook's data upon which its previous decision was based conforms in the main to the original notebook now in its possession. So far as the university of Copenhagen is concerned
Dr. Cook is now a back number.

LEAP TO THEIR DEATH

Factory Employees Become Panic
Stricken When Flames Appear

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Four girls and one man leaped to their death in a panic caused by a fire in the four-story factory building at 203-10 Chancellor street. Five others suffered injuries from which they will probably die, and many more were less seriously hurt.

Nearly all of the dead and severely injured were employed in the shirtwaist factory of Joseph Chichilin,
which occupied part of the fourth floor
of the building.

The flames, which originated in the elevator shaft on the fourth floor, are supposed to have been caused by the short-circuiting of the electric motor which ran the elevator.

The girls and men in the factory became panic stricken and jumped wildly from the fourth story windows,
although the building was well equipped with fire escapes and nearly every window had a rope. The monetary loss is $50,000.

RANKIN IS INSANE

Judge Orders Verdict of Not Guilty
Returned Against Woman Slayer

Saco, Me., Jan. 20.—Upon the testimony of Superintendent Sanborn of the state insane asylum that Fred F. Rankin of Kennebec, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of his housekeeper, Mrs. Della T. Littlefield, could not have been in a condition mentally to realize what he was doing at the time of the crime, Judge Spear in the supreme court here ordered the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty, by reason of insanity." This was done. Further disposition of Rankin will be decided later.

Rankin and Mrs. Littlefield were found by a roadside at Kennebec on July 7 last, locked in a death grip.
Mrs. Littlefield died six days later.

000 greater than that ever before embodied in a similar statement of a

ADVICE TO INSURANCE MEN

Hughes Tells Them That It Is Not Necessary to Buy Lawmakers

Washington, Jan. 20.—At the third meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Governor Hughes of New York addressed the executive officers of life insurance companies, declaring his faith in life insurance as an American institution. On the subject of legislative corruption he said:
"I hope the time has gone by when it will be thought necessary to protect the interests of life insurance policy-holders by efforts of corrupt legislators."

"You are not handling your own money, but the savings of the people. You are not responsible for legislation and you have no duty in any way, by any method, which will not stand full and public discussion, to thwart any attack upon the interests committed to your care."

GIRLS IN STRIKE RIOT

Many Arrests When Shirtwaist
Workers and Non-Unionists Clash

New York, Jan. 20.—A clash between shirtwaist girl strikers and non-union workers developed into a riot on Spring street and the police reserves had to be called out.

Many onlookers who had no affiliations with either side took part in the melee, which started in a personal encounter between a strike-breaker
and a union picket.

Ten of the of the fourteen pickets who had been stationed outside the Spring street plant were arrested. In default of bail they were sent to the Tombs.

DEATH PUZZLE MAY BE SOLVED

Police Think They Have
Miss Register's Slayer

CONFESSED HIGHWAYMAN

Is Held on Charge of Holding Up and Shooting a Man Who Died From His Wounds—Mysterious Crime of Last May May Ultimately Be Charged Against the Suspect, Who Admits Assaulting Many Girls

Providence, Jan. 20.—The murders of Miss Laura E. Register and Gilbert Mann, episodes which the police believed had passed into the mystery class of the annals of crime,
criminal attacks on at least a dozen young women, and hold-ups almost by the score, are being investigated afresh by the police in connection with the arrest here yesterday of Ernest W. Lorenz, whose arrest, the police declare, puts behind the bars
the most desperate criminal known to the New England states.

Lorenz claims ignorance of the murder of Miss Register, a mystery which baffled the Providence police so completely that all those interested in the crime had given up hope that the slayer would ever be apprehended.

Lorenz has admitted that he was not far away from the lonely spot where the girl was murdered, and he has said that he was familiar with the Reservoir avenue district.

He has also admitted that he viewed the body of the girl at the undertaking rooms a few days later
through curiosity.

The police will make a search in the hope they may find the missing bracelet and other trinkets that belonged to the girl.
All former rooming places of Lorenz
will be visited and girl acquaintances to whom he might have given the Jewelry, will be questioned.

Even if the Register murder cannot be fastened on the arrested man, the police state that the murder of Gilbert Mann, shot to death Jan. 8, will be included in the charges to be pressed against Lorenz.

George Williams, a companion of Mann on the day he was shot, picked out Lorenz from half a dozen men, and Mann identified a watch and chain
belonging to her husband,
which had been found in the arrested
man's trunk.

Miss Florence Evelyn Wilcox, a normal school student, Mrs. Harry
A. Bartlett of Seaside, Miss Mary Hallene of Lincoln Park, Miss Freda Hallene, Miss Florence Ellis, Miss
Florence Wilcox and William A. H.
Comstock identified Lorenz as the man who robbed them on separate occasions within a month.

A three-hour "third degree" examination came to an abrupt conclusion when the prisoner collapsed and fainted. He was revived by Dr.
Griffin and was put through another examination last night, details of which would not be given out by the chief of police beyond the announcement by Chief of Police Egan that "Lorenz has confessed to having attacked criminally twelve girls."

erals, one to Labor and the fourth went over from the Liberal side to the Unionist. The government up to this morning has a majority of fifty-six.

CHARGES ARE DENIED

Dennett Says Hitchcock Can Easily
Get All the Facts He Desires

Washington, Jan. 20.—A general denial of the sweeping charges of reckless and improper expenditure made by Representative Hitchcock was made by Fred Dennett, commissioner of the general land office, at the opening session of a hearing before the house committee on expenditures in the interior department. He admitted, however, that some of the minor specifications were true.

Commissioner Dennett freely answered the inquiries and informed them that Hitchcock could have got at the department all the facts he desired.

Commissioner Dennett was the only regular witness. Adjournment was taken until next Monday, when Hitchcock expects to bring out important developments by prodding Dennett.

TURKISH CAPITOL IS BURNED

Palace Which Cost $16,000,000 and Most of Its Contents Destroyed

Constantinople, Jan. 20.—The Turkish parliament meets, was destroyed by fire. The building alone cost about $16,000,000. The fire is believed to have been due to defective heating apparatus, although there have been reports current that reactionary
agents were responsible for it.

The fire spread with great rapidity.
Little furniture and very few of the important documents were saved.
Practically all the archives of the chamber of deputies, including important bills and the budget estimates, were burned. As a consequence the business of parliament will be seriously interrupted. Superstitious orientals regard the fire as an evil omen.

GOVERNOR QUINBY ON FOREST CONSERVATION

Has An Interesting Paper Before the Governors' Meeting at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Conservation was the topic considered yesterday by thirty state governors now in conference here. Governor Crothers of Maryland made the first address, speaking of good roads. The last formal address of the morning session was by Governor Quinby of New Hampshire, who spoke on forests. There was a general discussion of each of the three subjects. The governors were guests at a dinner last night at the White House.

Governor Quinby of New Hampshire made a strong plea for the conservation of forests, under the direction of the government. Governor Quinby spoke particularly of the devastation of the great forests of the White Mountain region, which cover more than 1,000,000 acres. Under the constantly increasing demand for lumber and pulp wood these forests, the governor declared, were being cut clean, especially in the mountain sides, where timber could be logged to advantage, and the timber cutting, the small growths, not fit for commercial use, being cut to the ground and allowed to decay and invite forest fires.

Governor Quinby heartily supported Senator Gallinger's bill for conservation of the forests, now in the senate, and declared that the time had arrived when congress must take action that the interests of the many be not sacrificed for the few.

"Why is America a laggard in preventing the waste of her timber, in reforesting her denuded forest tracts and in establishing reserves, that improvident methods of cutting can be prevented?" asked the governor. "The nations of Europe are alive to these interests, and are active in tree planting and cutting, the growths so that future generations may derive inestimable benefits from their wisdom."

"The senator from New Hampshire has introduced a bill to conserve our forests. Cannot we rely upon those whose interests are not directly involved in the question of supporting it?"

"Contrasting the conditions in the nations of Europe and in our own country, it would seem that by government intervention, our forests can be conserved and a profit made for the state and nation, and the owners of forest land will eventually be the gainers."

State at Syracuse in March or April to ascertain if possible the real cause for the high prices of all food products to the consumer. Secretary Clark of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce has been over the matter with the more important commercial bodies of the State for the purpose of securing the largest possible representation of business men, transportation representatives, farmers, country editors and others interested. There will also be invited representatives from the fruit sections of Oregon, California and Washington, and men from the middle west far west and the south having to do with food products. The interest of the Taft administration in question is gathered from the concluding paragraph in President Taft's message of Dec. 7.

"The high prices which such products (agricultural products) bring mean great prosperity for the farming community but on the other hand they mean a very considerably increased burden upon those classes in the community whose yearly compensation does not expand with the improvement in business and the general prosperity."

MIKADO AND SEBREE

American Rear Admiral is Received by the Japanese Ruler

Tokio, Jan. 20.—Rear Admiral Sebree, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, Rear Admiral Hubbard commanding the Asiatic squadron and the captains of the United States navy here were received on Wednesday by the emperor who was extremely cordial. The officers were presented by United States Ambassador O'Brien.

Following the audience the Americans were entertained at dinner by Vice Admiral Saito, to whom Rear Admiral Hubbard presented a loving cup, the gift of the officers of the American fleet. The dinner proved to be a surprise, for not only were the American and Japanese naval officers present, but all the members of the cabinet and many others prominent in official life here. The guests numbered 150.

Vice Admiral Saito toasted President Taft and Rear Admiral Sebree toasted the emperor. Admiral Saito also toasted the U. S. navy. The occasion was marked by an enthusiastic exchange of friendly sentiments. U. S. Ambassador O'Brien was among the speakers, and the assemblage was as notable a one as was ever seen in Tokio.

The squadron will sail homeward Jan. 20. The officers and men are in fine condition, and Rear Admiral Sebree says they have greatly enjoyed their visit here, during which no misbehavior upon the part of the men or other unpleasant incident has occurred.

ON CRUISER MONTANA

Body of Ambassador Nabuco to Be Conveyed to Brazil

Washington, Jan. 20.—The body of Ambassador Joaquim Nabuco will go to Brazil on the U. S. cruiser Montana about Feb. 25.

The government has offered to Munc Nabuco the use of the president's yacht Mayflower for her own passage to Rio Janeiro but this has been declined, and the ambassador's widow will sail from New York on Feb. 5 to arrive in Brazil ahead of the body. The Mayflower will take the ambassador's body from Washington to Hampton Roads, where it will be transferred to the Montana.

The funeral was held today at St. Matthew's church, and the body was then taken to a cemetery until it goes to Brazil.

TUFTS MAY EXCLUDE WOMAN

Or May Give Them Separate Course from the Young Men

Medford, Mass., Jan. 20.—Women may be barred from Tufts College altogether, or be forced to take their college course entirely separate from the male students, if a committee composed of the board of trustees now considering the matter so decides.

It is understood by people in close touch with the members of the faculty and President Hamilton, that much time and thought have been given to the plan of changing Tufts from a co-educational institution to a college for male students only. Another scheme that has been suggested and has met with considerable approval, it is said, is entirely to segregate the male and female students.

After the meeting of the special committee that was said to have been very despondent, nothing approaching a final decision was made, although the committee reported progress.

FRAUDULENT HAIR REMEDIES

The Cosmopolitan Magazine for February, 1909, contained an article on the Hair and Scalp by Woods Hutchinson, M. D., which says: "The strongest and most powerful curative element of scalp tonics and hair restorers is their smell, and the next powerful is their color. Most of them are frauds, pure and simple, and produce no effect whatever except upon the imagination and the nostrils of the users. The most common constituent of them all is alcohol, and the next common probably ammonia or some aromatic oil or extract which has the double advantage of a powerful odor and of producing a mild sense of warmth and local irritation. All of this class are mild irritants to the skin and produce a light temporary reddening by an increase in the amount of blood circulating through the scalp; but this has about as much effect on the hair bulbs as the beams of the harvest moon have upon growing cabbages."

The public is learning that falling hair, itching scalp and dandruff cannot be cured by these fakes and frauds. The only sure way to benefit the hair and scalp is to keep them clean and free from dust and disease germs. For this purpose Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation, is most highly recommended, as it is made of Refined Soap, White of Eggs, Coshin Cocopnut Oil, Glycerin and Salicylic Acid. Any doctor will tell you there are no better things known than these for cleaning the hair and scalp.

Is not so much to sell a Suit or Overcoat as it is to get a customer. There is a big difference between selling a man a suit and getting him for a regular customer.

But our object is to sell a man such a good suit the first time that he comes back for another one next season, and keeps coming back until he gets the habit of coming,—a habit that he finds too good to break.

There are many things about our Suits and Overcoats that we could tell you, but long years of experience tells us, that a satisfied customer is one of the best advertisements a Tailor can have.

ANTI-MEAT CLUBS ARE A BIG SUCCESS

Cleveland, O., Jan. 20.—The boycott on meat started by a few Cleveland workmen on Friday last has grown to such proportion that meat dealers here are alarmed and have announced a drop of two cents a pound on certain meats. A further cut will come very soon. The Butchers' Protective association held a secret meet Tuesday night to devise a method of fighting the boycott. The dealers make no secret of the fact that they fear their business will suffer greatly if the movement does not halt soon.

Already meat sales in this city have been cut in half and the boycott is on its second day. Nearly ten thousand men have signed pledges not to eat meat for thirty days, and many said they would go on a vegetarian diet till Easter, as suggested by Senator Williams, chairman of the legislative committee that will investigate the high cost of living in Ohio.

It is thought at least 100,000 persons will be in the anti-meat class by Saturday night in this city alone, while there are thousands in other parts of Ohio joining the movement. Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and smaller cities have organized anti-meat clubs.

SLIGHTEST PROOFS"

Copenhagen, Jan. 20.—The committee of the university of Copenhagen has completed its examination of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's original notes. It has confirmed its previous conclusions, that not the slightest proof that the explorer reached the north pole had been submitted. The report was submitted to the consistency of the university yesterday. The committee finds that the copy of Cook's data upon which its previous decision was based conforms in the main to the original notebook now in its possession. The latter, the examiners say, contains various alterations, but there is nothing to show whether the changes were made with the purpose of deceiving. While the consistency was unanimous in declaring that Cook's claims were absolutely untrue, there are still some of its members who urge that Cook is an honest man, though not a scientist. So far as the university of Copenhagen is concerned, Dr. Cook is now a back number. No immediate step will be taken to rescind the honorary degree conferred upon Cook, as the verdict is merely one of "case unproven," so far as the decision of the university is concerned. However Rector Solomonsen and Prof. Stromgren, the chairman of the examining committee have been delegated to consider further all evidence at their disposal after which final action concerning the university's honoring of the explorer may be taken.

The Catholic Union and the Country Club rolled a close match on Wednesday evening, when they split even on points the C. Many a Portsmouth Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.
Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Portsmouth. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:
Charles R. Oliver, 3 Collins court, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Standing for hours brought a constant strain on my kidneys and I finally began to have kidney complaint. My back was so lame at times that I could hardly attend to my work and I was also troubled by headaches and spells of dizziness. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use, following the directions closely. The pains in my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint soon left me and I felt much better in every way. The cure has since proven to be a permanent one and I therefore advise anyone suffering from disordered kidneys to try Doan's Kidney Pills."

UNDER TWO FLAGS.

The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.

By ANNA BENTLEY.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

As soon as we had dropped anchor at Valparaiso Jack Hoskins, Tom Archard and I, having been cooped up aboard ship for three months without setting foot on shore, determined that we would get together if possible in the first liberty party and have a good time in the town. Hoskins was a reckless, fearless chap, Archard was not much better on the score of recklessness, while I was the only peaceable one of the trio.
"Now, Hoskins," I said before starting, "I wish you to understand that if you get us into a scrape while we're on shore you and I will not train together again."
"I'll be meek as Moses," he said.
"If he doesn't drink too much," Archard put in.
"Well," I added, "both of you remember that these Chileans are a mighty mean crowd to offend, especially if he doesn't drink too much."

"NOW SHOOT IF YOU DARE!"

ly for Americans, when there's not a United States armed ship in the harbor. Having thus lectured my chums, we went ashore. We walked about arm in arm till we met a pretty Spanish girl who looked admiringly on Jack's stalwart figure, when he deserted us for her. I begged him not to go, for the girl was in company with a Chilean, who seemed to me to be loath to turn her over to an American sailor. But the fellow made no objections, and Jack succeeded him. Whether this had anything to do with what followed I don't know, but I have always suspected that it had.
Tom and I roamed the town alone, looking in at the shop windows, taking in one or two shows, and when thrust lounged in the tropical gardens, through the perfume of the flowers was rather sickening to me. Finally we concluded we'd better go and look after Jack.
We started up from the gardens where we were sitting at the time and went out into the streets. We hadn't proceeded far before we saw Jack coming toward us. When we met we saw at once that he had been taking aboard more spirits than was good for him. He began to tell us very volubly what a fine time he had had. He had soon parted with the girl, who couldn't speak a word of English, and joined a party from the ship who were having a fine spree.
All of a sudden a policeman appeared, drawing a sword, hit Jack with the flat of it. Before we could interfere Jack planted his fist under the policeman's chin, raising him off his feet and sent him sprawling on the pavement.
I knew very well that there was but one chance for Jack. If we could run him to the shore, get him into a boat and out to the ship there might be some hope of getting him out of the scrape without serious consequences. Quick as a flash I seized one arm; Tom, following my cue, seized the other, and we set off as rapidly as we could get Jack on for the place where we knew the boats to be.
After turning a corner I released Jack's arm and shouted, "Run, Jack—run for your life!" If he hadn't been drinking he might have got away. As it was the policeman signaled for assistance, and very soon several of the force were on our track. They reached us just before we could get into a boat.
Jack was arrested and marched back to the town. Tom and I followed him, a policeman on either side of him and several in the rear, and saw him taken into the police office. We were not allowed to go in ourselves, but loitered outside till we were thunder-struck at being informed by a man who came out of the building that Jack Hoskins had been summarily tried for attacking a policeman and had been condemned to be shot the next morning. At first we thought the man was hoaxing us; but, getting the same information from others, we made up our minds that it must be true.
After a hurried consultation we determined first to go and inform the American consul of the circumstances, then go to the ship and tell the captain. The consul, however, was the proper person to act in the matter, and we went with him as he hurried away to do what he could in the name of the United States government to save Jack's life. He at first expostulated against the barbarity of executing a man for resisting a wanton attack of a policeman, but as the authorities turned a deaf ear to his expostulation he made a formal protest. No more attention was paid to the protest than to the expostulation.
That night was a distressing one for all our crew, and as for Jack, it only remained for him to prepare for death. Our captain could do nothing. If the Chilean authorities would not respect a representative of the United States they would not pay any attention to the captain of the crew to which the offender belonged. The barbar was not only bare of a United States fighting ship, but did not contain one of any other nation.
Not a wink did I sleep that night, and when it was light enough for me to see I was securing the harbor in the hope that some sort of a fighting machine had come in during the night. But I was disappointed. The waters were entirely bare of guns.
The condition of our crew was harrowing. We wanted to fight and had nothing to fight with. To permit one of our number to be shot to death by a lot of Spanish American underdogs, bloodthirsty rascals well nigh threw every man of us into spasms. We got together in knots, and many were the foolish plans that were proposed to save our comrade's life. But as time wore on and the hour appointed for the execution approached an awful sense of our powerless position settled down upon us and stunned us.
Early in the morning I was made the bearer of a note from our captain to the consul. The captain dared not leave the ship for fear of some move on the part of the men which would not only be hopeless, but get us into more trouble. I was the only man of the crew to go ashore. While I was at the consulate a crowd was gathering in a field in rear of the house to witness the execution. What the note contained I don't know, but on reading it the consul shook his head.
At that moment I saw the British consul, whose house was opposite, come out to raise the British flag. He stood looking at the crowd in the field, and I saw the British bulldog indignation rising in him at the murder about to be committed. With the flag still in his hand he came across the street and, approaching the American consul, said to him:
"You're not going to let them shoot that man, are you?"
"What can I do?" replied the consul despairingly. "I have protested against the act. I am powerless to do more."
Meanwhile Jack had been marched out, and a firing squad was taking position before him.
"Give me your flag!" shouted the English consul. And in another moment the stars and stripes were clutched in his hand with the union Jack. Then hurrying across the field, I saw our own consul following him, we saw him elbow his way through the crowd and run up to the prisoner. The next instant the United States flag was folded around Jack's broad shoulders, and immediately after the blood red banner of Great Britain was placed over it. Then the consul who had done this, sending a few paces back, faced the firing squad and cried defiantly:
"Now shoot if you dare through the heart of England and America!"
This was too much for the dagos. If the moral power of the United States did not scare them that of the two most powerful nations on the earth and, what was more to them, on the sea was more than they dared defy. Then, too, this combined moral power was displayed in a way to give it full force. To deliberately shoot a man through the two flags representing the two wings of the great Anglo-Saxon race required a nerve that even the valiant Chileans did not possess.
After a hurried consultation the Chilean authorities, suddenly stricken with terror at what they had done and realizing what they had intended doing, basted to release the prisoner. He was delivered to the American consul. With tears streaming down his cheeks he gratefully pressed the hand of the man who had saved him. Then he grasped that of the American representative. Lastly he permitted me to take his hand in mine.
Who gave the news of Jack's release to those on board our ship I don't know, but shortly after it occurred: when Jack and I went down to the ship's boat that had brought me ashore and which was waiting for me, we saw the crew dancing about, rounding up the rattles and holding all the signal bunting there was to be had. When we left the shore there was a cheer, while we pulled for the vessel where there were cheers, and when Jack climbed the ladder and stepped over the gunwale he found himself on the shoulders of the strongest and tallest men on the ship and was carried around amid a scene of wild rejoicing.
It is a long while since that narrow escape—a tragedy averted by the presence of mind of one man. Where Jack Hoskins is now I don't know, since that was in the days of our youth. Our sailor days have long been over, and we have been long parted. But there is one scene which for dramatic interest stands far ahead of all the events in my life. It is Jack wrapped in two flags, with a firing party before him and the British consul during the dagos to fire on him, piercing as they must the emblems of old England and her stalwart son, the United States of America.
The main feature about this story is that it is true. The only difference between the arrest, condemnation and intended execution of Hoskins at Valparaiso and this account is that it is here given in story form.

NEW SHORT STORIES

No Feline Proovilities.
Senator Depew was asked by a reporter as he was having his luggage examined last month if he had brought any stories back from Europe.
The genial senator laughed and replied:
"Well, in the smoke room of the ship I heard an interesting thing about a Montanan in Chester. Chester, you know, is walled. Its wide walls, on which you could drive a horse, are famous. You can circle the town on them."
"But the Montanan knew nothing about Chester. He had arrived in Liverpool only that afternoon. And as soon as he finished his quaint dinner he said to the waiter in the quaint Chester inn:

"I THINK YOU'D FIND A STROLL ON THE WALLS ENJOYABLE."

"What is the best way for me to amuse myself here for an hour or two before bedtime?"
"Well, sir," said the waiter, "it's a fine evening, the moon is full, and I think you'd find a stroll on the walls most enjoyable."
"The Montanan, ignorant of the popular promenade upon the wide walls of Chester, thought he was being guided. He frowned at the waiter and said bitterly:
"What do you take me for—a tomato?"

The Secret of His Success.

Captain Alf Gibson, land commissioner in the state auditor's office, used to take a very prominent part in politics down on the Neosho. Once the captain was a candidate for a minor office in his home county. His best friend politically was also a candidate, but for a different office. They campaigned the district thoroughly, but the captain's friend did not seem to be getting anywhere. He complained to the captain, and the future land commissioner decided to go on a little private tour of investigation. He went all over the district inquiring of the farmers their objection to his friend. They were suspicious and hesitated long before giving any reason, but finally began to leak out.
"This friend of mine," said the captain, "was a particular kind of cuss. He washed his face and combed his hair in the morning, washed and combed again when he came in from the field for dinner and performed the same stunt in the evening. He used soap. I had never thought much about it, but when I investigated I began to find that therein lay the objection to my friend. The voters thought he was too fussy. I talked and reasoned with them, but it was no use. When the election came on the poor fellow was swamped. He hardly got a vote. His washing and combing defeated him."
"The captain folded his hands complacently across his vest front and concluded:
"But all of those people voted for me."—Kansas City Journal.

A Quaint Indorsement.

J. Pierpont Morgan at the recent diocesan convention in New York amused a group of clergymen with a story of a minister.
"He was as ignorant, this good man, of financial matters," said Mr. Morgan, "as the average knacker is ignorant of matters ecclesiastical."
"He once received a check—the first he had ever got in his life—and took it to a bank for payment.
"But you must indorse the check," said the paying-teller, returning it through his little window.
"Indorse it?" said the old minister in a puzzled tone.
"Yes, of course. It must be indorsed on the back."
"I see," said the minister. And, turning the check over, he wrote across the back of it:
"I heartily indorse this check."

Full of Meaning.

Richard Croker a few days before his departure for Florida was the guest of honor at a dinner at the St. Regis, New York.
Mr. Croker, praising Judge Gaynor's oratory, said:
"His oratory is so concise. He packs so much meaning into so few words. He is like the old clerk whose master said to him:
"John, that's a very shabby office coat you're wearing."
"Yes, sir," said the old clerk meaningly. "I got this coat with the last rale you gave me."

A RUSSIAN PRISONER.

Experience of a Man Who Was Chained to a Wheelbarrow.
In writing of the Schluesselburg prison in McClure's Magazine David Soskice tells of a prisoner who was chained to a wheelbarrow:
"Schedrin had been condemned to hard labor in the convict mines of Siberia and for an attempt to escape from there had been sentenced to be chained to a heavy wheelbarrow. When the order came for his transfer from Siberia to St. Petersburg no conveyance could be found large enough to contain him, the wheelbarrow and the conveyance of gendarmes. Yet, as the wheelbarrow had become a part of the prisoner, the gendarmes were afraid to leave it behind. It was therefore decided to place Schedrin with his conveyance in one cart and the wheelbarrow behind in another. For several months, day and night, Schedrin and the gendarmes galloped through Siberia upon a troika (a three horse cart or sledge), while another wheelbarrow reposed upon which the wheelbarrow reposed, causing the deepest amazement among the peasants in the villages through which they passed. Upon the arrival of the prisoner in St. Petersburg he was once again chained to the barrow, and only after he had been six weeks in the Schluesselburg was he finally detached from it and given freedom of movement within the narrow confines of his cell.
"When they unchained me," said Schedrin subsequently, "I could not get enough movement. I wanted to run and run, and it seemed to me that I could never stop. How strange it is that men who can enjoy perfect freedom of movement never realize the wonderful happiness that is theirs."

HENRY CAVENDISH.

A Recluse, He Lived Far From the Madding Crowd.
Henry Cavendish, the famous natural philosopher and chemist, was a recluse who astonished England.
A son of Lord Charles Cavendish and a nephew of the third Duke of Devonshire, possessed of enormous wealth, the subject of universal admiration because of his scientific attainments, he preferred the solitude of his study and the company of his books to the pleasures society could offer him.
For many years he lived at Hampstead in a large, roomy house, attended by a number of female servants, who, however, were strictly enjoined to keep out of his sight. If a domestic by the merest chance came into the presence of Cavendish she was instantly dismissed.
Every morning the philosopher would leave a note on the hall table naming what he wanted for dinner. No one saw him place the note there; but, accustomed to the strange customs of the establishment, the meal would be prepared, and only the remains of the repast signified the presence of the master of the house.
When Cavendish died in 1810 he left behind him nearly a million pounds sterling, besides a lasting reputation as a scientist and writer on natural philosophy.—London Telegraph.

Chrysanthemums.

Chrysanthemums stand fourth in commercial importance among flowers. Only the rose, the violet and the carnation surpass them, and that chiefly because the chrysanthemum season is so short, while the others can be had from the florist nearly the whole year round. Greece gave us the name. Chrysanthemum means "golden flower." But the name was invented long before the big butter yellow globes were known in the occident. It referred to the prevailing gold in the small varieties that were known. Strangely enough, the first chrysanthemum brought into Europe was not gold, but purple. It was a small flower about two inches across, shaped like an aster. Somebody took it to Europe from China in 1700—and, presto, the modern history of chrysanthemums was begun.—Argonaut.

Why He Could Beat McGregor.

Alexander Ure, the lord advocate of Scotland, is a keen golfer, and he has a good store of golfing tales. These he is always ready to relate, even if they tell against himself.
Playing on a certain course in Scotland, he remarked incidentally to his caddy: "By the way, I played a round with Todd McGregor the last time I was here. Grand player, McGregor!"
"Aye," said the caddy, "but ye could balt McGregor the noo."
"Do you think so?" exclaimed the gratified lord advocate, being well aware of McGregor's prowess.
"Aye," drawled the caddy. "McGregor's deid."—Golding.

How Customs Vary.

She—In some parts of Australia when a man marries each of the bride's relatives strikes him with a stick by way of welcome into the family. He—Yes, and in many parts of America when a man marries each of the bride's relatives strikes him with a loan by way of welcoming him into the family.—New York Times.

The Glad Hand.

"What do you mean by the glad hand?"
"Anything," answered Mr. Bloochips, "that I bent three of a kind."—Washington Star.

A Dull Point.

Bloobs—Snibbette is always talking about his point of view. Snibbs—Yes, but unfortunately it isn't sharp enough to penetrate anything.—Philadelphia Record.

"ANOTHER'S SHOES."

A Phrase That Had Its Origin in an Ancient Custom.
The expression "stepping into another's shoes," like many another common phrase, had its origin in an ancient custom.
The old Norse law required that a person to be adopted must step into a previously prepared shoe. This shoe was made from the skin taken from the right hind leg of a "three-winter-old bull."
The skin was flayed from above the hock, and out of this the shoe was made. The person to be adopted stepped into this shoe, taking into his arms one at a time, it is presumed, the younger sons of the man making the adoption. If there were also sons who were of age they stepped into the shoe afterward, by this sign showing their consent to the adoption.
A man in this way could adopt an illegitimate son, making him his lawful heir, but in that case the father was obliged to step into the shoe first. If there were any full grown sons, they stepped into the shoe afterward; if there were no full grown sons, then the next of kin did the stepping, and without his consent, by the way, this special adoption could not be made.
Witnesses to the ceremony in the use of the shoe were required to establish its legality.
It will be seen that this was considered an important ceremony, and since so much "shoe stepping" was done it is not strange that the expression as now used passed into common speech.—Chicago Record-Herald.

OSTRICH BATTLES.

The Great Birds, as Strong as Horses, Box With Their Feet.
Ostriches battle for supremacy with as much ferocity as stags, bulls, buffaloes and other animals. An ostrich fight is amusing, inasmuch as it amounts practically to a boxing match, with the feet, wherein the combatants lightly dance around each other.
There is, however, this difference—if any human boxer could hit as hard with his hands as can an ostrich with its feet the championship would be decided by a single blow. In sparring the ostrich stands on one foot, with the other foot and the wings raised, the bill wide open and the neck distended. It strikes with the force of a trip hammer.
Sometimes on an ostrich farm a keeper will become involved in such a mixup, in which event it is not infrequently the case that the human emerges from the scrap with a broken leg, arm or head.
Under modern training an ostrich equals a horse in power and indeed can perform many of the "stunts" whereof his equine colleague is capable. In one respect, however, he excels the horse, for by the aid of its wings the ostrich can leave behind the swiftest running thoroughbred. In harness an ostrich has at Hot Springs, Ark., paced in about a horse's time.—Harper's Weekly.

His Unlucky Day.

Even the least superstitious are often struck by the misfortunes which attend some persons on certain dates. A large firm in the city has in its employ a living instance of the fact. On June 12 an employee lost his left arm by coming in contact with machinery. The accident disabled him for his then employment, and he was given that of a messenger. On another June 12 he was run over in the Strand while on an errand. Result, a broken leg. The next accident was a fall on the stairs in the firm's buildings—again June 12—the right arm broken this time. The fourth mishap on another anniversary broke three ribs. The firm took the case into consideration and issued an order that in future the employee was to take a holiday on that date, an order with which he has now complied for several years.—London Chronicle.

His Second Thought.

A politician named Blank got a place for a clerk during one of the sessions of the legislature of his state. The clerk was very grateful, says the Saturday Evening Post. At the end of the session he came around to Blank and said: "Mr. Blank, I want to tell you how much I am indebted to you for your kindness in getting me the place I have had. It meant more to me, Mr. Blank, than you may think. I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Also I want to say, Mr. Blank, that if there ever comes a time when I can do anything for you—anything at all—you are to command me. I will do anything you may ask me to do, I am at your service."
Blank thanked the man and he started to go. As he reached the door he turned and said: "Of course, Mr. Blank, I would prefer that it should be something honorable."

Could Fill the Bill.

Superintendent—What we want is a night watchman that'll watch, alert and on the qui vive for the slightest noise or indications of burglars, somebody who can sleep with one eye and both ears open and is not afraid to tackle anything. See? Applicant—I see, boss. I'll send my wife around.—Lippincott's.

Took It Back.

"I give you my word, the next person who interrupts the proceedings," said the judge sternly, "will be expelled from the courtroom and ordered home."
"Hoorsy!" cried the prisoner. Then the judge pondered.—Judge.

More than we use is more than we need and only a burden to the bearer. —Seneca.

Paducah Sails this Afternoon

Quartermaster Emery Has Resigned

The Question of Leave Among the Mechanics

Brooklyn Marines on the Pinch
 Eight United States marines were placed on trial Thursday in the United States District court in New York on charges of stealing $10,000 worth of supplies from the Brooklyn navy yard, shortly before a recent detachment of marines left for Nicaragua. Three of them have already pleaded guilty.

Those who have confessed are: John J. Maher, John F. Raymond and Thomas E. Murphy. The others are: John W. McMurray, Thomas Murphy, Herbert C. Wheeler, Patrick Cochran and Charles Caspar.

Hands in Resignation

Chester H. Emery, a quartermaster in the machinery division of the manufacturing department on Wednesday tendered his resignation. During the illness of Master Mechanic Thomas O. Conner, quartermaster Boulter is in charge of the shop.

Paducah Goes to New York

The U. S. S. Paducah sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon for New York. Her departure leaves the Patapsco as the only ship in commission, other than the prison ships at the yard.

Looking for the Body

A crew of riggers from the equipment department were engaged on Wednesday afternoon and part of today scouring the river in hopes to pick up the body of John Johnson, who was supposed to be drowned on Monday.

The Wrong Man

That Edward Murray of Wellesley, on trial in the United States district court at Boston for complicity in the robbery of the Salisbury, Mass., post office on Feb. 3, 1908, was confined in the brig on board the U. S. S. Wabash at the Charlestown navy yard, a prisoner on the night of the robbery, was the testimony of Mate M. W. Phillips of that ship on Wednesday.

What Boston is doing for Work
 In an endeavor to secure work for a larger number of men at the Charlestown navy yard by taking the question up with President Taft and Secretary of the Navy Meyer in person, St. Clair M. Lent, business agent of the Boston Patternmakers Association and one of the best known labor leaders in Boston, left for Washington on an early train today.

Mr. Lent is accompanied by A. B. MacStay, business agent of the New York patternmakers and J. L. Ger-non, general vice president of the national organization. They will join him at New York city, MacStay going to Washington to present the claims of the Brooklyn navy yard. Germon represents the national organization, and before leaving Boston, Mr. Lent declared that he hoped to have sufficient work sent to Charlestown to keep the fullest possible complement of mechanics employed there this year round, in the near future.

Had a Bad Fall

Pay Clerk William Craig of the U. S. S. Southery is confined to his home in this city as a result of a bad fall on the ice.

Moulders on Short Time

The moulders of the yard are losing time, owing to lack of work to the amount of two and a half days per week.

Should be Allowed in Proportion

The matter of fifteen days' leave for yard employees every year has been a matter which in one way or another has caused more or less argument especially among some branches of navy yard mechanics, such as painters and wood carvers. Many of these men have worked for years on the navy yard and in each case were discharged before the year was completed, thus losing a vacation of fifteen days simply because they did not complete the year. It is the opinion of navy officials and workmen that under these conditions these men should be allowed time with pay for the amount of work done during the year.

WOMAN DRUNK AT DEPOT

Sad Case of a Stranger in the City This Morning

This forenoon, a woman carrying a dress suit case appeared at the depot ticket office window and purchased a ticket for Dover. Having some little time to wait she proceeded to get a jag on right on the spot and succeeded in obtaining a most beautiful edge. It was not an active jag but one that caused a complete and pretty flop on the floor. She did not confine her joy water to the G. O. Blake, or cuckoo brand but put in a half pint of alcohol. In a few minutes she was practically ossified from the effects of the high rectified spirits.

Officer West was called and, with the aid of a carriage and driver, she was gently landed at the police station. In a search of her travelling outfit, several bottles labelled alcohol were found. She was unable to give her name and not much will be known about her until she recovers from the stupor.
